Novel. When Malca Bernovski, a Holocaust survivor's daughter, rides a horse offtrail in Nixon-era Washington DC, she discovers the wounded Arab-American antiwar leader Gavin Hareen, prime suspect in the lethal bombing of an army truck. Trust, friendship, finally love bloom between the two young people as they flee an implacable FBI. From the White House to the Rockies, from the Warsaw Ghetto resistance to the post-9/11 search of an Arab-Jewish adoptee for her origins, this tale spans generations to delve questions urgent as today's headlines.
